And never thought that I could get saved. Before I joined the Army.

Poor wife for me did often pray,

But then I'd not heard of the Army.

But then I'd not heard of the Army money I used to spend in drink, To spend in drink, to spand in drink; I often nearly died through drink, Defore I get saved in the Army.

The Army I saw go marching about, And in the select I beard them shout; And in the soloon I beard them shout;
I really felt I onght to come out,
And join the Salvation Army,
Poor wife for me still wept and prayed,
Still wept and prayed, still wept and

Before I found the Army.

And somehow didn't feel qute right;

And I longed to join the Army. The Angels, loo, came hovering round, Came hovering round, came hovering

By Stary-Oayt. Marshall, (r. n. s.) The Angels, tee, came hevering round, And I wanted to join the Army,

Away no longer could I stay; Away no longer count I stay;
I never can ferget the day,
When ell my kins were washed away,
And I did join the Army.
The Holy Ghest in Roods come down,
In floods came down, in floods came.

In Scotts came down;
The Hely Glass in Scotts came down.
The night I got saved in the Army.

My wife and I are happy now,
Of course with the devil we often row;

THE FRENCH LASSIES.

By Jas. LUMDIE, FENELON FALLS.

Ture,-"Marching on to War." OME hallolgiah lassics
Have come across the son
To tell the French Canadian
Salvation makes them free
And the far away in Switzerland,

And sumy France as well, The Lord is saving precious souls From a burning hell.

CHORDS. So march along brave lesses, With the Blood and Fire, Lift the blood stained banner; Raise it higher and higher. Tell the French-Canadians, That Jesus died to save, That on Calvary's mountain For them His life He gave.

All helf will try to stop you All helf will try to stop you
In the work begun,
But you have conquered in the past,
And made old Salan ran;
Glorious victorias you have won
In Switzerland and France,
And with map in Queben,
You will make the devil dames.

There are thousands now in Ouebec. There are thousands now in Quebe
Who soon will see the light,
And will swell the Army's runt.
To bettle for the right.
So push clong my comrates,
No matter who you are.
The battle is for God and right,

Push on the hely war.
